UNION MEN AND OWNERS CONFER SOON

Hope Seen in Efforts of McGrady to End Ship Strike on Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Announcement of deep sea ship operators that they would resume negotiations before the weekend with seven striking unions brought cheer to the strike-bound west coast today. It overshadowed the gloom that had spread a few hours earlier when the Masters, Mates' and Pilots' association rejected a peace proposal offered by owners of coastwise steam schooners.

New Meeting Slated
Edward F. McGrady, federal mediator, believed he would be able to arrange a meeting of big ship owners and unionists either today or tomorrow. It will be the first joint conference of major parties in the dispute since they broke off negotiations with the strike October 29 which took 40,000 men from their jobs.

Before the conferees will be placed the "fundamental demands" made by the unions which precipitated the strike.

The announcement that negotiations would be resumed brought new hopes that peace may come to the waterfront before Christmas.

Proposal Rejected
The Masters', Mates' and Pilots' association voted 282 to 9 against the schoonermen's proposal which had been expected to lead toward a break in the strike. Union leaders said the plan was rejected because it did not provide either the pay scale or overtime payments sought in original demands.

REBEL TROOPS FORCED BACK

MADRID, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Rebel troops made a reconnaissance in force against the Rosales and Montalvo sectors of the Madrid front this morning but were driven back to their trenches after an hour's fighting.

Planes Drop Leaflets
Three rebel bombers flew over the city shortly after noon scattering propaganda leaflets down town but the wind blew them south of the Puerta Del Sol out of the reach of most citizens. They made no attempt to bomb the city and fled when anti-aircraft guns opened fire.

Heavy snows in the north brought the government drive on Burgos, the rebel capital, almost to a standstill. Dispatches from Gijon said all Asturian fronts were "calm." The Basque front was unchanged today because of the zero weather which halted fighting.

Although brisk north winds drove the thermometer below freezing in Madrid, the rebels broke the temporary lull in fighting at 1 a.m. when they came over the top to check on Loyalist defense activities during the last few hours.

NATIONS AGREE ON PEACE PACT

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Argentina and the United States agreed at the Inter-American Peace conference today to limit a proposed anti-war pact to the western hemisphere.

This solved the first big problem of the conference, one which for a time threatened to isolate Argentina from Europe because of League of Nations obligations.

Under the agreement, which will be incorporated in the draft convention now being considered by the delegates of the 21 American republics, the American nations will consult among themselves at the first threat to the peace of the western hemisphere.

The agreement specifically says peace consultations shall be an independent American move without connection with the League of Nations.

LOVE WINS VICTORY AS KING GIVES UP THRONE FOR 'WALLY'

Mrs. Wallis Simpson and King Edward VIII are shown side by side in the composite picture at the left, while at the right is the Duke of York, who becomes the new king of England with the abdication of his brother. He is shown here with his dogs at Royal Lodge, Windsor Great Park. He typifies the conservative Briton's ideal of a king-antithesis of his headstrong, romantic brother, Edward, who has given up his throne in order to marry the American divorcee.

RECREATION PROJECT TO START SOON

PASADENA, Dec. 10.—(UP)—H. R. Tolley, administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, today urged an improved production control plan to protect farmers from price-wrecking surpluses.

Addressing the American Farm Federation convention, he warned that farmers will not let "legalistic barriers and fine-spun interpretations" keep them from having crop and price control legislation.

"For production control that will work in grave emergencies," said Tolley, "farmers need a new and better plan. The new device should incorporate the best in the plans already tried, drawing upon farmers' experiences with each of them for further improvements."

He declared the soil conservation program, with improvements, "should become a permanent part of the government's long-time plans for agriculture. The farmers should have the right to work together to protect the good land that remains."

"If I understand the temper of the farmers correctly," he concluded, "they are in no mood to let legalistic barriers and fine-spun interpretations keep them from having equality with large corporations in meeting nationwide problems of production and prices."

"And if they are almost buried once more under mountainous surpluses, I think they will be even less tolerant of man-made barriers in the path of progress."

FIRST MONEY CONTRIBUTED IN YULE DINNER CAMPAIGN

Off to a meager start with $30 toward a $500 goal, the Santa Ana Salvation Army's and The Register's campaign for cash contributions with which to supply Christmas dinners for needy children and their families is in its second day.

Capt. Lewis McAllan, local head of the organization, announced this morning that three checks, totaling $30, had been the only contributions received thus far. The donors were R. D. Stinson, Jessie L. Carter and A. P. Trawick.

Inspired by outstretched hands of children in needy families, workers today were canvassing the city to learn exact destination of the Christmas baskets, which will be distributed December 24.

The Christmas tree and Santa Claus party will be held at the headquarters on Sycamore street Monday evening December 28, Captain McAllan said.

The workers in the city will investigate hundreds of homes in the next 10 days, and distribute tickets which in turn will be presented to Captain McAllan for the food baskets.

Jayne said today that the project, as set up under a district plan, will utilize 150 men and women. The original recreation project, including crossing guards, utilized the services of 320 men and women.

MRS. LUCKENBACH GETS $400 MONTH

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Superior Judge James G. Conlan today awarded Mrs. Gladys Luckenbach, fourth wife of Louis Luckenbach, shipping magnate, $400 monthly separate maintenance for herself and daughter.

Mrs. Luckenbach had sued for $1000 monthly but said she "might be able to get along" on $400. Luckenbach had pleaded for a low amount, explaining he was "broke" and living on the charity of friends.

Judge Conlan ruled Mrs. Luckenbach will receive the money only as long as she remains in California.

Rogers told the United Press that Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson intended to remain in Cannes through Christmas.

He stated emphatically that Edward would not come to Cannes or any other place on the Riviera.

News of Edward's act was telephoned to the villa, where Rogers received the call.

The United Press correspondent asked Rogers, an American, whether Mrs. Simpson would marry Edward.

"I cannot answer that," Rogers replied. "I cannot commit myself, but everything would indicate that is the idea."

LOVERS MEET AFTER HOLIDAY

CANNES, France, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Edward VIII of England will not see the woman for whom he renounced his throne until at least after Christmas, it was said today at the Herman L. Rogers villa here as word was flashed from London that the king had taken his irrevocable step of abdication.

Rogers told the United Press that Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson intended to remain in Cannes through Christmas.

RULER EXPECTS TO LEAVE COUNTRY BY END OF WEEK; EARLY WEDDING POSSIBLE

BULLETIN

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation announced tonight King Edward will broadcast a farewell message to his people tomorrow at 10 p. m. (4 p. m. C. S. T.)

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—(By Trans Atlantic Telephone)—King Edward VIII abdicated today from the throne of Great Britain, renouncing for love the rulership over the world's greatest empire and one-quarter of the inhabitants of the globe.

He gave up his crown so that he could go into perpetual exile and marry Mrs. Wallis Simpson, twice-divorced American.

A breathless, stunned house of commons received from the king an historic document giving up the "heavy burden" of kingship because of the difficult personal situation in which he finds himself.

The Duke of York, his brother, will succeed to the throne, it was announced.

The duke's daughter, imperious little 10 1/2-year-old Princess Elizabeth, becomes heir presumptive to the throne, Britain's next queen if her father dies without a son being born to him.

On Throne 324 Days

The historic occasion came at 3:42 p. m., after Edward had been on the throne 324 days.

Just before Big Ben, the voice of the empire, chimed the three-quarters hour, the speaker called on Baldwin. The prime minister arose

SLAYS NIECE, BROTHER, SELF

CORNING, Cal., Dec. 10.—(UP)—E. F. Cobb, 38, slayer of his brother, Tye Fulton, 42, and the latter's 3-year-old daughter, Joyce, died in the county hospital at Red Bluff today from self-inflicted bullet wounds.

Fulton's wife, Hazel, was reported to be in a critical condition from wounds received when Cobb, angered because he was refused financial backing for a "vitamin maker" accessory to electric refrigerators, ran amok at the Fulton home here.

The slayings, police said, followed a longstanding family quarrel which reached a climax last night. For some time it had been known that Cobb had been attempting to obtain money from Fulton—who was his brother despite the fact that their names are not alike—in order to make a trip to Washington to obtain a patent for his invention.

Late yesterday Fulton and Cobb returned from a trip to Redding, 60 miles north of here. Apparently the brothers quarreled when they reached the Fulton home, officers said. As they reconstructed the affray, Cobb slugged Fulton to death with a heavy instrument, then beat the child to death.

FIRST MEETING AT RECEPTION

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—The most famous royal romance of history, which culminated today in the abdication of King Edward VIII from the historic throne of Great Britain because of his love for an American-born girl, began years ago while he still was the Prince of Wales and grew stronger with the years.

Number of Versions

There are a number of versions of this historic meeting which set in motion a love affair without precedent in monarchical traditions. By some it is said that the then Prince of Wales and Mrs. Wallis Simpson, at that time married to her first husband, met as long ago as 1920 at a California ball. Other intimates say they met on the Riviera and were introduced by Ernest Simpson, the second husband, one-time officer in the crack Coldstream Guards, the king's own

CANADA ACCEPTS YORK AS RULER

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 10.—(UP)—Canada accepted the abdication of King Edward "with profound regret," Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King announced today following an emergency cabinet meeting. Canada also accepted the Duke of York as king.

The Canadian government, Premier Mackenzie King stated, dispatched a cable to the British parliament upon receipt of the text of King Edward's message to the British house of commons. The United Kingdom government was asked to include Canada "spiritually" in its own legislation validating the abdication and the new succession.

The vastness of Canada, the premier said, made it impossible to call a special session of parliament, which is scheduled to meet January 14. Under section four of the statute of Westminster, which gives the dominions equal status with Great Britain, the dominion was able to include itself in the legislation now being drawn up in London, Mackenzie King said.

CAMERA REVEALS HUMAN SIDE TO ABDICATION OF KING EDWARD FOR LOVE

Making his epochal decision to renounce a crown and his homeland for love of Mrs. Wallis Simpson, King Edward VIII of England has sharply divided the nation in opinion. While the "man in the street", generally supported their monarch in his demand that he be permitted to wed the woman he loves, his abdication, it is feared in some quarters, may change the opinion of the workingman and woman to a belief that their king "let them down." Left is a picture of the Duke of York, who will succeed Edward as ruler of the British Empire. The photo was taken when the Duke, then known as Prince Albert, was a naval cadet. Next is a picture of Edward taken on a recent trip to South Wales when he spent much time meeting with the long unemployed miners and discussing their troubles with them. The British worker has always felt that Edward, better than any other monarch understands and sympathizes with their problems. When the recent crisis first became known London crowds cheered after reading a huge sign reading "After South Wales You Can't Let Him Down". The third photo is a NEA radiophone to the Register showing a crowd gathered outside Buckingham Palace to await the momentous decision in the empire rocking dispute. The radiophote on the extreme right shows Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin and Home Secretary John Simon, with grave faces, leaving No. 10 Downing street, after a conference.

DUKE OF YORK TO BE RULER

from his seat and walked to the bar of the house.

In a voice which by a mighty effort of will power he kept steady, the stony country squire, the very epitome of conservative England, said:

"A message from his majesty the king, sir, signed by his majesty's own hand."

The speaker read the king's message.

The emotions of the assembly can only be imagined when he came to the solemn words:

"Edward VIII of Great Britain, Ireland, the British dominions beyond the seas, king, Emperor of India, do hereby declare my irreversible determination to renounce the throne for myself and my descendants."

And then:

"I am most anxious that there should be no delay . . . that all necessary steps should be taken immediately to secure that my lawful successor, my brother, His Royal Highness, the Duke of York, should ascend the throne."

(Signed) "Edward R. I."

Only once more, in all probability, will he write that signature, Edward, king and emperor. That will be when he signs the act of abdication which will be enacted immediately by the house of commons and the house of lords.

The moment that his pen leaves the paper he ceases to rule and the Duke of York is king.

Signed Papers Today

The king signed the fateful abdication papers this morning at Fort Belvedere, his country residence, in the presence of his brothers. At that moment, the flag of the Duke of Cornwall was dipped over the castle.

Then it was raised again to the masthead. Edward, for a few pitiful hours, is still king and Duke of Cornwall.

It is possible that, with the consent of the new king and parliament, he will retain the duchy and its revenues. With his other resources, he thus will go into exile with an annual income of perhaps about $500,000.

There is little likelihood that the king, once he leaves England, will ever again set foot on British Empire soil. After his final farewell to his sorrowing mother, Queen Mary, he may never see her again.

Baldwin Reveals Events

In the house today, Baldwin revealed the historic events of the last month leading up to the decision to abdicate—events which have kept the world in unprecedented suspense.

incipal pilot boat which enabled the Hamburg-American liner Seattie to run through the strike blockade at San Pedro and sail for Europe.

Official protest over the Seattle incident and a proposal to President Roosevelt that the federal government take over the operations of the cream of the American merchant marine, with employment controlled by the marine unions, was voted at a mass meeting last night of the seven striking maritime unions.

Seven members of the Seattle crew came ashore in the harbor pilot boat and tied up the liner to the dock yesterday, after being refused tugboat service or longshoremen services. After taking on stores and 45 passengers, the ship sailed for Europe via the Panama canal.

Complete Details Friday

The house took a brief recess before it got down to work. Baldwin said everything will be completed by tomorrow night. Then the king will sign the abdication bill and leave the country, either tomorrow night or early Saturday. It is not probable that he will remain in the country a moment longer than is necessary after he has signed with his own hand the death warrant of his reign.

After the abdication, the privy council will meet for an "accession council." The privy councillors will be joined by various other officials such as the Lord Mayor of London. The new king will be presented, make a short speech and take the oath.

Royal heralds, just as in the case of the death of a king, will proclaim at designated spots in the city.

HOWARD NASON IS HELD TO BE SANE BY JURY

The Rev. Howard B. Nason, of Tustin, who repudiated his own insanity plea at his trial on a morals charge involving nine young boys at Tustin, found the jury in agreement with him last night.

After deliberating six hours, the jury in Superior Judge H. G. Ames' court rejected the insanity defense and found the minister to be sane. Judge Ames ordered him to appear for sentence tomorrow at 1:30 p. m.

The Rev. Alfonso Escobosa, pastor of a Mexican church near the scene of the fight, told of hearing the crash of glass, and then witnessing the struggle between the two men, as he stood at a window of his home.

He heard a cry "Take the knife away," as he stood at the telephone calling the Orange police, who arrived in a few minutes and arrested Becerra. Meanwhile the minister had seen Becerra stoop over a pool of water in the street, as though washing his hands.

The pocket knife allegedly used by Becerra in the stabbing was introduced in evidence today, the point of the blade slightly bent, as the result, the state contends, of contact with Balderama's collarbone.

Main, at 5:20 a. m., caused no damage.

Thousands of California dog owners were startled by recent disclosures about some canned dog foods packed here.

Investigators found that inedible products—entirely unfit for dogs to eat—had sometimes been used in manufacturing such foods.

Immediately the State Health Department set new standards for commercial pet foods—standards that make Balto, the "Safety Diet," BIG NEWS. Because tests show Balto rates over 70% higher in the vital elements dogs need for health than the very rigid new requirements of the State Health Department!

"A readily available source of energy and adequate protein and minerals should exist in a dog's food. Balto has these three assets. Regardless of what other foods are given, feeding Balto at least 4 days out of 7 will benefit the canine's health."

Balto is made with whole, fresh-caught fish—including the nourishing glandular tissue. California State inspectors supervise its processing and packing.

NEW HIGHWAY QUARTERS TO OPEN IN WEEK

According to present progress being made in preparing the new Orange county Highway Patrol headquarters at 3005 North Main street, for occupancy, the patrol will begin moving its equipment from the present place at the courthouse, to the new place, next week, Capt. H. C. Meehan believed today.

Practically all orders for equipment to furnish the new place have been approved in Sacramento and this week, lumber is being laid. The patrol probably will use a week or more in moving as regular service to motorists will be maintained as usual, at the courthouse.

More than 2500 square feet of floor space is available at the new location, with plenty of parking spaces around the building. The building, of stucco, has been remodeled. It formerly was used as a cafe and as a fur farm headquarters. It sets back from Main street 65 feet.

BUILDERS PLAN FOR NEXT YEAR AT FINAL MEET

Great progress along all lines drawn by the exchange early in 1936, was seen in the various reports of officials and their assistants.

The group was entertained at the conclave by a mixed chorus furnished by the federal music project, and directed by Mrs. Dodley Page Harper.

Smith explained that the program to influence the schools to add a curriculum of vocational training would go a long way in solving the problem of apprenticeships in all trades in which the organization is interested. The movement, he said, was being sponsored by Archie Mooney of San Francisco, chairman of the state industrial relations commission.

"The main objective of the next year's legislative program," Smith declared, "will be the tightening of the qualifications for licensed contractors. This will mean that we have a higher type of builder with which to deal and our organization as well as similar groups throughout the state are vitally interested in this part of the program."

The annual meeting of the exchange will be held Tuesday, January 12. George W. Young, the organization's new president, and other recently elected officers, will be inducted into their posts at this time.

DR. BAUER BUILDING ATTRACTS COMMENT

Santa Ana residents and visitors alike will continue tonight to admire and comment on one of the outstanding and most unusual of Laguna Beach, as a shotgun blast asserted drinking and jealousy last night upset the quiet of Laguna canyon, two miles north of Laguna Beach, as a shotgun blast said Deputy Sheriff G. F. McKevey and James Workman scurrying to the scene.

They found Francis Burroughs, the brilliant lighted and varicolored decorations are singularized by the fact that they include two beautifully illuminated scenes. One is "The Three Wise Men," and the other is "Santa Claus and His Sleigh."

Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Bauer, of this city, designed and placed the novel Main street decorations, completing their work about a week ago. Dr. Bauer, a local chiropractor, said the idea for the original scheme came to them after having viewed many unusual building decorations in San Francisco.

Complete School Drainage Project

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 10.—A drainage project at the Washington school has just been completed by the school board. For the protection of the school property and adjacent property also the private road, the board had to have 200 feet of 15 inch pipe laid to carry the drainage water to the ditch which adjoins the school property on the east.

The project under WPA which has been left idle for some time, at the Washington school because of the lack of skilled labor, is expected to reopen about the first of January. The building is ready for the plasterers. It is thought that the federal offices will be able to furnish such labor by the first. The building is to be ready for the fall term in September.

COMMUNITY PLAYERS SCORE BIG HIT IN "JUDGMENT DAY"

By ELEANOR YOUNG ELLIOTT
Presenting a calm summary of the outstanding features in the famous Elmer Rice drama, "Judgment Day," as it was given last night by Santa Ana Community Players association to introduce a four night's run in the council chamber of the city hall, seems a task as difficult only as was the production of the play itself.

For "Judgment Day" is not as simple a drama of calm and stable emotions to be approached as one would approach a pretty pastoral romance. Instead it deals with that fundamental love of country and of justice that dominates civilized man. Therefore when it is presented by a cast, each individual member of which seems not to be acting a role, but to be living an era, one thinks of it only in superlatives.

Who were the stars of "Judgment Day"? That question is easily answered. Just read the cast of characters as they were played last night. Granted that some of these characters had more lines than others, that some were responsible for tense situations, that some took prominence in more scenes. But at the same time even the most prejudiced observers had to admit that each player, whether his role was major or minor, portrayed that particular character as though he were the actual individual. Which after all, seems the final test of stardom.

Whoever saw a more beautifully restrained development of an emotionally restrained role than that of Marion Bruner as "Lydia Kuman"? It was not the well known high school teacher that Santa Anans are accustomed to meeting. It was a Slavic woman battling for her life—almost her reason. And battling at the same time for an oppressed people.

Those five remarkable judges were not the attorneys, the ranchers, the educators that we know in everyday life. They were a dignified and deliberating body of men, struggling to fulfill the duties expected of them in a dictator-ridden country. Some of them wavered. Some of them refused any compromise with their conscience.

No one saw the merry and gall fellow—well met J. Leslie Steffensen of Santa Ana's business world. They did not even see the Steffensen of "Green Grow the Lillies" or other local stage successes. They saw a domineering, ruthless official, intent on his nefarious attempts to maintain a dictatorship. No one could possibly see in that saucily villainous prosecuting attorney, "Dr. Wolfgang Bathory," the genial friendliness that is associated with Franklyn G. West.

Any sense of uncertainty that might have arisen through the difficulties of the Slavic names of the characters, falling rather strangely on ears accustomed to the English tongue, was speedily lost as the plot developed. The audience, impressed with the flowing quality of the performance, with that fine teamwork of the players, soon found itself lost in the fascination of the story unrolled.

Hatred for the cutting satire of the prosecutor (Franklyn West), for the inherent cruelty and falsehood of his assistant, "Malinov," (Claud Blakemore), or for the arrogance of "General Michael Rakowski" (Leslie Steffensen) was followed by a wave of sympathy for the persecuted "Lydia" (Marion Bruner) or for "George Kitov," played with finesse and a convincing recklessness by Robert Guild. This was one of the strongest roles in the play and was handled with exactly the right degree of fatalistic and utterly reckless courage.

In a production that consists almost entirely of character roles, since few could possibly be identified with any of the Players as their friends know them, were such remarkable performances as that of Walter Prill as the drugged "Kurt Schneider," another victim of a power-maddened autocracy. There was that of Mary Batten Steffensen as "Marthe Teodorova," whose testimony was so plainly the result of fear, and whose apparent complete brainlessness provided some of the needed comedy of the evening.

Victor Allemann, one of the local sea scouts who recently returned from a colorful cruise among coral isles of the South Pacific, described the voyage for the organization. He drew a vivid picture of the native "fire walk," in which tribesmen walk over hot rocks in bare feet, the hospitality of the residents of American Samoa and adventures in the Hawaiian Islands.

Allemann was introduced to the group by Harrison White, local Boy Scout executive. President Edward W. Cochems presided at the session and emphasized the desire of officers for a large attendance by members, their wives and women guests at the annual Christmas party when presents will be exchanged. Fred Schweitzer and Harold Mathews were co-chairmen of today's program committee.

News Behind The News

By Paul Mallon

POINTING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Mr. Wallace and his AAA squad of land speakers are beginning to talk riddles.

The agriculture secretary told the farm bureau convention he does not want the old AAA program because it is not good enough. Nor is the current soil conservation act all that is needed. He hinted that he wants a new and better program, based on effective production control, but he is not prepared to say just what. Then he philosophized a lot about similar control for industry in a way which broadly suggests that what he really wants is a constitutional amendment for a new type of NRA as well as AAA.

Then up popped his administrator, Mr. Tolley, who said one more measure is necessary to protect the farmers and that is "nothing less than direct and effective production control" — the same having near Eureka. "For years I had suffered with the effects of habitual constipation. My system became clogged with poisons and my kidneys were badly affected. They were so active I was up at all hours of the night, yet rest and sleep was broken, came weak and nervous and it as if my entire system was wearing out. My appetite left me, had no pep at all and many times it was all I could do to sit around. From my head to my feet my entire body was filled with pain but there seemed to be little I could do about it. I spent lots of money doing my best to get relief—but meeting only with panted failure. I became terribly discouraged and did not know where to turn next when friends persuaded me to take this Gly-Cas a trial."

"Gly-Cas went right to the source of my health troubles," continued. "My entire system is cleansed of its poisons in a most natural manner. All the rheumatism and every ache and pain is left my body entirely. Gly-Cas gave me a good appetite, regulated my kidneys and bowels still I can eat and sleep good, up each morning fully refreshed and ready for the day's work. Gly-Cas actually does its work for it has merit for its accomplishments."

CHURCH GROUP TO SPONSOR PROGRAM

GARDEN GROVE, Dec. 10.—Plans for Christmas programs at the First Baptist church were made on Tuesday evening when 20 members of the Sunday school board met for the regular monthly meeting and pot luck dinner in the bungalow.

J. A. Knapp, superintendent of the Sunday school, was in charge of the meeting. The annual Christmas party program will be presented in the church auditorium on Wednesday evening, December 23 at 7:30 o'clock. The older groups of the Sunday school will take part in a play to be directed by Miss Faire Virgin while the younger children will present songs and readings. There will be a Christmas tree and treat for the Sunday school.

Next Sunday evening at the service commencing at 7:30 o'clock a musical program will be presented by the seventh grade a capella choir of the Washington grammar school under the direction of Miss Opal Charlene Knox. "White Opals" for Christmas will be brought at the Sunday school hour on Sunday, December 20. These gifts will be sent to missionary homes.

Miss America of 1935, who was Miss Henrietta Leaver of McKeesport, Pa., presents a candidate to succeed her in the beauty ranks—her own new baby daughter, Patricia Lee. Miss Leaver, now Mrs. John Mustacchio, left a quiet existence in McKeesport to win the beauty title and the fame that goes with it. Then she created a sensation by refusing to allow a nude statue of herself to be exhibited publicly. In preference to possible fame on screen or stage, she chose a housewife's role, and now motherhood.

YES, THIS FOOD ENDS YOUR CONSTIPATION

Look out for those half-sick days, when you feel listless, headache, out-of-sorts. Your trouble may be constipation. The real cause of common constipation is too little "bulk" in meals. Your system misses its regular exercise.

Get this needed "bulk" in a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Within the body, its "bulk" absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently spouts the system.

Why keep on feeling bad when you can feel good? Millions of people use ALL-BRAN. Tests prove it's safe and effective. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Two tablespoonsfuls daily are usually sufficient. Serve as a cereal, with milk or cream, or cook into recipes. Remember, ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

Certainly you'd rather eat a food than take pills and drugs. Buy ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg Company.

TAPS SOONDED FOR VETERAN

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 10.—Taps were played for Lester H. Young, 90, locally well known G.A.R. veteran, yesterday when over 100 Spanish-American, U. S. World war and Canadian World war veterans took charge of the funeral services held for him in the Dixon chapel at Balboa. Pallbearers, guards of honor and other contingents in keeping with a military burial were picked from the above mentioned groups. J. F. Watkins sang several songs.

Mr. Young, for many years a resident of the harbor district, having a home at 128 East Central avenue, passed away at the veterans' hospital at Sawtelle last Monday. His wife and a son had preceded him in death.

Fighting in the Civil War with the Union forces he had come in contact with President Abraham Lincoln several times and enjoyed relating those experiences in his older days. He had made it a custom for the past several years to recite Lincoln's Gettysburg address regularly at the local Memorial day services.

Interment was made at Fairhaven cemetery.

Small tables were centered with tall white tapers decorated with a gold star and guests found their places by gold stars bearing the name of some town in Palestine, that country being the topic of study for the meeting. In place of the dessert course the hostess passed a large pottery platter of various fruits in keeping with the custom of Palestine.

Members of the girls' glee club of the high school directed by Leland Green, sang "Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem," "Gesu Bamino" and "Covertary Carol" (traditional) with Ruth Leslie Mitchell having the solo part. SWITCHING DEFENSE FOOTBALL'S BIG DEVELOPMENT OF '36

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Variations in defense were more prevalent in the last football season than ever before. For example, Syracuse used a five-man line against Colgate, and Southern Methodist employed an eight-man line against Fordham. Many teams kept opponents in a quandary by changing their defensive setups from play to play.

Possibilities of this phase of the game barely have been touched upon, and the better minds look for considerable development along this line during the next few years.

The most prominent addition to the defense in 1936 was the revival and development of "house-trapping." Nearly every club used it to a greater or less degree. Many outfits had this type of play to hit every hole along the defensive line. In the Haughton era at Harvard it was called the "psychological play," and was highly developed against the defensive right tackle.

The play's success is based on allowing a defensive lineman to charge through unmetaled at a man who apparently has the ball. In football language it is called "chasing a butterfly," as the faker retains possession of the pigskin. When the defensive lineman charges through, he is blocked from an unexpected angle, and the ball is carried through the hole left by the lineman.

DEFENSE BETWEEN FIRES

This type of play will not work against linemen who do not charge, but a line that does not charge is more easily set back than one that does. Therefore, this play keeps the defense between two fires and for that reason is fundamentally sound.

Harvard developed mouse-trapping most highly and Dartmouth used it expertly, particularly against Columbia's hard-charging forwards.

Another advance in the last campaign was the use, by good combinations of the forward pass as an integral part of the defense and not just when the running attack failed. Teams passed on first down this fall more than they did on third down, which formerly was considered orthodox.

Lateral passing did not increase and probably wasn't attempted as much as a year ago. The majority of successful laterals were on the end of reverse plays, which is the most conservative way this type of pass can be used. Colgate, which did so much to popularize it, did little down field lateral passing.

Joe Koehler's "Bees" oppose Leuzinger's lighties in a 3 o'clock preliminary.

Coach Greene indicated he would start a quintet composed of Bill Milligan and Carl Smith, forwards; Melvin Barron, center, and Capt. Sam Lockhart and Bob Clark, guards. Barron, a transfer from Franklin, and Clark have shown improvement in practice this week.

TELL HOW 40 MILLION WAGERED AT SANTA ANITA IN TWO YEARS

LOS ANGELES Dec. 10.—(UP)—The flood of dollars which has poured into Santa Anita race track during the first two years of its operation was described to the assembly committee at its first session.

Robert King, public accountant for the Los Angeles Turf club, the track operators, reported a total of $15,897,684 in pari-mutuel bets for the 1934-35 season, and $25,251,933 for 1935-36. Gross income was $2,377,965 and $3,172,400 for the two seasons. Track admissions and the tracks' per centage of bets in addition to the "breakage"—the oddments not counted in figuring the bettor's returns.

After King reported that the track netted $267,000 in breakage in 1934-35 and $409,747 in 1935-36, Assemblyman Ralph Evans announced he would ask Attorney General U. S. Webb for an opinion as to how the item should be figured. He said the section of the law defining breakage was ambiguous and declared the manner in which it was administered enabled the track to build up a huge surplus which should go to bettors.

King testified that although the law allowed the track 8 per cent of

NOTED COACHES MAY SPEAK AT DONS' BANQUET

Three of the country's foremost football coaches will speak with Santa Ana's champion Dons next Wednesday night if they accept invitations extended by a chamber of commerce committee in charge of the event.

Glenn S. (Pop) Warner of Temple has tentatively accepted a bid. He is expected to arrive in Orange county next week to visit his brother, Judge Fred S. Warner, at San Clemente.

Coach Jimmy Phelan of the Washington Huskies, Pacific Coast conference champions who play Pittsburgh in the Rose Bowl

"Pop" Warner New Year's day, has been asked to attend. So has "Tiny" Thornehill of Stanford, who is expected in the Southland next week.

Joe E. Brown was extended an invitation but was forced to decline. Brown, an ardent U.C.L.A. fan, wrote that he had followed the fortunes of the Dons closely this season. "The U.C.L.A. freshman players tell me Santa Ana was the best team they met this year," the actor said.

Tickets (selling at 75 cents each) went on sale today at George Platt's Service station and Victor Walker's sporting goods store. Committee members W. H. Spurgeon, George Baker and Calvin Flint also have them.

BILL COOK TO SPEAK AT SANT BANQUET

Coach Bill Cook of the Dons has accepted an invitation to speak at the Philos club's banquet for Santa Ana high school's football team next week. The date, tentatively set for next Wednesday, has been deferred because of its conflict with the Dons' diner.

St. Anselm lived up to its reputation as a second-half club and took the ball as far as the Holy Cross in the final period in an attack featured by the passing of left-handed Joe Kelley. It nearly won with a place-kick on the last play.

Johnny Spirida held Holy Cross in the hole with coffin corner kicks, one from the St. Anselm line, 36 going out of bounds on the Crusaders' one-foot line.

ROLLING UP A COMMANDING 15-TO-9 lead in the first ten minutes, the crack Santa Ana Woolen Mills basketball team defeated Riverside junior college, 37 to 21, at Riverside last night.

Except for their bad attack of jit-ters in the opening period, Harry Griffith's Bengals managed to match basket for basket with the Weavers who turned in a coordinated team exhibition.

Santa Ana's victory, however, may prove costly as Leonard Lockhart, a stellar guard, received a rib injury on the last play that will keep the ace out of Friday's contest at the Y. M. C. A. when the Woolen Mills plays the Breakers' Varsity Service of Long Beach.

The Weavers started with a brilliant passing attack which sent

Lockhart, Doug Wheeler and Fred Wiemer into scoring position repeatedly. The Santa Anaans rang up

15 points before Riverside scored at all and were leading 19 to 5 by halftime. They returned to increase their lead to 26 to 8 before the Bengal's got going.

George Doyle, substitute forward, was the only Bengal to register more than one field goal. Coach

Griffith used two distinct combinations in a futile effort to stop the Santa Ana contingent.

In the "B" game, Coach Koeg-ler will start Dick O'Neill and

Russell Duffel, forwards; Rob-

Young and Marvin Webb, guards.

First line reserves are

Jimmy Ramirez, forwards; El-

SCOTTIE'S CAGERS
Out of 'Y' Loop?

Santa Ana's troubled Commercial league failed to get under way again last night when the Scottie's Malt slingers failed to show up for a scheduled opener with the Pen-

Ralph Smedley, Y. M. C. A. director, intimated that the Malt shop may be dropped from the cir-pear for scheduled games. In that event another team would be sought, Smedley said.

ning with St. Mary's Gaels and including an inter-sectional tilt with Geor-

ing to the schedule released to-day.

Faced with an opening dive deep into competition or sandwiching

the Gaels' game between battles with Washington State and U.S.C.

Coach "Stub" Allison chose the "lesser of two evils" and put St.

Mary's first.

The perennial doubleheader with

California Aggies and College of

Oct. 23—Southern California.

Oct. 30—UCLA at Los Angeles.

Nov. 6—Washington.

Nov. 20—Stanford at Palo Alto.

The Georgia Tech game will be played at Berkeley, probably during official put it.

The Bears were preparing today for their departure for Atlanta where they play Georgia Tech Dec. 26, in their lone inter-sectional game of this season.

Ryan Kin Held In Tucson Jail

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 10.—(UPI)—A man who, police said, identified himself as Thomas Fortune Ryan II, grandson of the late New York multimillionaire, was held in Pima county jail today on charges he failed to pay nurses who attended him during a recent illness.

Ryan, as he called himself, was held in jail in default of $800 bail set by Justice of the Peace D. G. Chalmers to insure his appearance in court for trial Dec. 16.

TRIAL OF DAMAGE SUIT IS POSTPONED

Trial of the suit against Orange county and A. G. Barnes, car driver for the county, to collect $945 for damages and injuries allegedly resulting to James Moore, 20, and his brother, Albert Moore, 18, of Santa Ana, in an automobile collision at Magnolia avenue and La Palma street, near Anaheim, last May 14, yesterday afternoon was postponed to December 21 at 9 a.m. in Santa Ana justice court.

The Moore suit, brought by Charles T. Moore, as guardian of the minors, alleges Barnes was reckless, careless and negligent in his driving and caused the collision.

Franklin G. West represented Moore and District Atty. William Menton, the defendant. James, driver of the Moore car, alleged he suffered $400 personal injuries and the car was damaged to the extent of $75. Albert, riding with his brother, alleged he suffered $450 personal injuries and $20 loss when his glasses were broken. Barnes and the county denied their responsibility.

PLANE WITH SIX ABOARD MISSING

JUNEAU, Alaska, Dec. 10. — (UPI)—Fears increased today for the safety of an airplane carrying six passengers, missing since Pilot Don Glass reported Tuesday he was heading into a blinding snowstorm between Juneau and Cordova.

Mrs. Wilson F. Erskine, of Kodiak island, formerly Sally Lane, of Seattle, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Louis Lane, of San Francisco; William Evans of Seattle; Cecil M. Wells, Anchorage; Lorraine Cozack, Juneau; Co-Pilot Gordon McKeon, Seattle, and Pilot Don Glass, Seattle, were on the plane.

Officials at Cordova and Anchorage said the plane had not landed at either town and advised from Valdez said it was unreported there. Hurriedly organized searching parties were being gathered, and authorities said unless the plane was soon reported, all possible efforts would be directed to locating them.

HALF-ACRE in EDEN

WAGE PROPOSAL GIVEN APPROVAL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(UPI)—Industrial leaders urged Major George La Berry's Council for Industrial Progress today to sponsor a program that would remove wages and hours from economic competition. More than 600 delegates representing business and labor applauded the proposal.

President Roosevelt, in a message to the council, expressed the wish that "forthcoming deliberations between representatives of industry and labor will, by advancing the best interests of each, promote the stability of our whole national economy." Berry read the message.

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, informed Berry that:

"I believe, as you do, that there should be made possible some provision whereby the question of hours and wages can be taken out of competition; I believe in the theory of an economy of abundance as unemployment can never be sold by a limitation of production."

In referring to radicalism, he continued, "such a thing as has happened on the Pacific coast is a matter of public opinion, and it is time that we Lions and other organizations fight harder to teach race and better Americanism."

The meeting was opened by Rolla R. Hays, Jr., president, who turned the session over to E. M. Sundquist, program chairman. Lickteig was presented to the audience by Luther Mack, immediate past district governor.

In reviewing the fundamentals of Lionism, I always like to compare the organization with a football team. In football, the coach teaches the fundamentals of the game. You can do nothing without education. Your president is your coach, the secretary your quarterback, the board of directors the linemen, the committee the backfield men and all the rest, the green squad that sits on the sidelines, watching and learning and waiting for their chance to get into the real game.

Thus the first fundamental of the club is education. The next in importance is membership. It is just as easy to handle a membership of 50 as it is to handle 200. Another is attendance. It is discouraging to see any one of the clubs having an average attendance of 50 per cent, and there is absolutely no excuse for it.

"Next is finance, and we need not talk of that because the Santa Ana club is always on time with reports and has always had bills paid promptly. One of the most important fundamentals is that of activities, which includes all the work that Lions are doing. This includes help to Boy Scouts, the work for the blind, the underprivileged children and the safety problem."

KEMMERER IN BEST TALK TO TOASTMASTERS

"Let Yourself Go" was the subject of the talk which won first place for Harry Kemmerer in the speaking contest held by Smedley chapter of Toastmaster's International at their meeting last evening at Daniger's.

In his talk Kemmerer discussed the beneficial effects of laughter and stated that when a person laughed, he had to start worrying all over again.

Second place in the speaking contest was voted a tie between Karl Bosch and D. H. Tibbals. Bosch, who has just returned from a six weeks tour of the United States, used the title "My Itinerary" for his description of the outstanding features of his trip.

D. H. Tibbals held the interest of the club members with his description of the physical proportions of the Great Pyramid of Giza.

"Mr. and Mrs. Marco Polo" was the subject of the talk given by Allen W. Goddard in which he stated that the recent voyage made by Dana and Virginia Lamb demonstrated that the present generation of American men and women has among its members at least a few who have the spirit of adventure.

James T. Workman gave an impromptu talk in which he discussed the differences between seeing and observing things and demonstrated the inability of law enforcing agencies to render the best possible service to the public when witnesses to crimes and accidents are unable to accurately describe what they saw.

"Who Is Champion?" was the title of the talk given by Robert Korff in which he discussed the present football season and the coming Rose Bowl game.

Charles F. Waldo, making his initial "Craft Talk" before the club, told of some of his interesting winter-time experiences in Minnesota and the Dakotas.

Ernest R. Byrne was toastmaster of the evening with Walter S. Ferris as General Critic and Harry S. House as Dictionary Critic for the speaking program.

Dr. C. J. Ruley, E. Arledge and Morris Birt were visitors to the club.

Jimmy Fidler in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10.—Settin' Around (MGM): A constant air of suspicion toward visitors pervades this studio. It is first evidenced in the supercilious attitude of the boys guarding the front entrance. Even the most stupid person might be expected to remember faces he sees daily, but not this studio's office boys. The same holds true for the company police. Newspaper reporters who have been "covering" the lot for years are often required to flash their press badges a dozen times during one meander within the sacred walls.

This lack of courtesy is in marked contrast to other studios, where good will toward all is demanded of every employee. Of course, MGM has the upper hand because the company has under contract the most popular stars of the moment, and reporters must visit the lot like it or not. But I wonder what would happen if the studio should suddenly lose most of its top names?

On the "Maytime" set I spied a very woody looking Nelson Eddy. Ordinarily he is a healthy ox, so I could not refrain from comment on his wan appearance. "Been breaking in pipes," he explained, "and I guess I overdid it." It seems that he had been impressed by the fact that Clark Gable, Robert Montgomery and Lionel Barrymore are pipe smokers, and he decided to join their legion. So he visited a smoke shop and purchased seven fine pipes. Each day for one week he broke in a new one.

ARCHES BRIDGE IS CONSIDERED TRAFFIC BOON

By JOHN NEUBAUER

Hailed as a $185,000 puzzle the bridge and by-pass at the Arches, recently completed, is being considered in some quarters as a boon to traffic. In other quarters it has been considered a headache because of the "no left turn ruling." The Register Staff Artist John Neubauer has made a diagram of the bridge and by-pass explaining traffic regulations over the bridge.

COURTROOM IS EMOTION FIELD

Mary Pleased She Has Dog After Assignment

By MARY KNOCH

Ticking away noisily, the courtroom clock tolled off the seconds in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court where J. Frank Burke and A. B. Berry were tried for authorizing and printing anonymous advertising.

The whole thing was called off after a lengthy legal skirmish. It wasn't the battery of legal talent headed by the fluent Sam L. Collins, former congressman, nor the star witness, John Acker, manager, advertising manager, whose testimony provided a political bombshell that attracted attention.

My nose for news was now twitching. I pressed forward to learn of this animal's visit to Santa Ana. Inquiry revealed he was the pet of Otto Puchert, of Modjeska. Puchert had received the animal from South America. It had been his for four months and during that time he had made the creature his pet. The iguana is strictly vegetarian and his diet consists mostly of avocados, bananas, and swiss chard.

Nor was it the humorous angle injected in the proceedings regardless of the seriousness of the scene or the issues at stake.

It was the keen human interest that provided another touching story. The selfsame human interest that is manifested in other trials. Some of the spectators are honestly interested — others morbidly curious.

Here on the other side of the bar of justice are people from all walks of life, both high and low. Everyone is there for a reason, even if it is for the purpose of watching a few idle hours.

Often as a trial progresses, and the lawyers match their legal wits, the proceedings may seem immaterial and utterly useless, but they're for a purpose.

It is with interest that the spectators watch wide-eyed, open-mouthed. A drama of human emotion is unfolded in front of them.

In nearly every instance, these court proceedings are educational as learned witnesses discuss various phases that remotely touch on the case before them in order to prove a point. It is because of this that young college students are often spotted in the crowd. Elderly people who have seen it was my week to work at The Register and assignment in hand I was on my way to conquer the world. When suddenly I came upon a crowd surrounding a car which was parked on Fourth street near Main. Here I saw the prospects of a story and edging my way to the center of the crowd I came face to face with a green iguana of South America.

The iguana was now twitching. I pressed forward to learn of this animal's visit to Santa Ana. Inquiry revealed he was the pet of Otto Puchert, of Modjeska. Puchert had received the animal from South America. It had been his for four months and during that time he had made the creature his pet. The iguana is strictly vegetarian and his diet consists mostly of avocados, bananas, and swiss chard.

The iguana comes from the central port of South America, up the Amazon river about 100 miles. It attains full growth in two years and the age of the reptiles can be estimated by condition of their teeth. Ninety per cent of the meat diet of South America is the iguana, which is considered a delicacy by the natives. Along the whole length of the back to the tip of the tail, there is a crest of elevated and compressed scales. Puchert urged me to feel of the sharpness of the tail and with reluctance I did so. Toward the tip of the tail the scales are extremely sharp. The iguana uses its tail to fight. The toes are furnished with sharp claws, which enable it to climb trees with ease, while a rapid serpentine movement of its tail propels it swiftly through the water.

Puchert is the only man to be mentioned by Robert Ripley five times. One time he had 150 tarantulas covering his body, and another time he had 1,500 black widow spiders on his body, the third time he lay in a bed of 50 freshly caught Texas rattlers. Two other instances were not important, Puchert said.

With this information I went on my way, happy that my pet was simply a dog and not a South American iguana.

life, met its struggles and pitfalls, apparently find interest in the more dramatic element.

In any instance it is the human scene that is the magnet that fills the courtrooms.

While the legal battles in Santa Ana chambers may not be as colorful as those in the larger centers of population where grim, brutal facts are uncovered and scandal predominates, there is plenty of stark reality in every trial.

While cases may be similar on outward appearances they are as different as a waterfall. Each case provides a different story even though the setting is always the same.

So as the clock on the wall keeps on ticking and new faces appear in the witness stand, silently the crowd will watch life unfold in the courtroom.

PIONEER MOVES FROM HOME IN ORANGE CITY

By MARAH ADAMS

Time was when everybody in Orange knew Ed Honey. That was the same time when without any question Ed Honey knew everybody in Orange and the surrounding country.

Now unless some unforeseen circumstance arises Edwin A. Honey and Orange, inseparably linked for nearly 60 years, are to see no more of each other for Honey has moved with his chickens and the household furnishings which have surrounded him for so many years, to a little tract of land between Buena Park and Fullerton.

Honey, who soon will lay claim to the title nonagenarian, has lived at 708 East Almond avenue for nearly half a century. His yard was filled with trees and shrubs which he had planted—old friends standing sentinel around him. The home, no longer his, is deserted and he has started all over again in a new spot.

Probably no one who ever has lived in Orange has been more enterprising than Ed Honey as he is generally known. He owned the first water works in the city. The plant stood where the Orange branch of the Bank of America is now located and residents who were first water works in the city. with that trade. Our farmers, seeing that danger and not liking certain types of foreign governments, have urged that we withdraw as much as possible from Europe and Asia.

"One of the basic of this theory, the thing to do would be to build up trade with those nations which have similar political ideals."

Wallace, addressing the American Farm Bureau Federation convention at Pasadena followed up President Roosevelt's Pan-American friendship program. He expressed confidence that American farmers will make "their contribution" to peace by giving the Pan-American nations of "similar political ideals" the bulk of the trade now going to "five nations certain to become involved" in any major war.

"Cannon Fodder"

"Farmers," he said, "furnish their sons for cannon fodder in time of war and suffer far more from the inevitable post-war deflation than any other class."

S.A. MERCHANTS TELL OPINION OF TRADE ACT

Local merchants today expressed their opinions of the fair trade act which was upheld by the supreme court recently. This act permits retailers and wholesalers to make agreements to fix and maintain established prices for goods. It is possible that the fair trade statutes will develop into modified state NRA systems.

"If it is conducted on a fair basis to the merchant, manufacturer and consumer, I think it would be a fine thing," stated S. Hart, of the Hart Dry Goods company. He went on to say that "if it were conducted fairly it would be boosted up to where the customer would be willing to pay a better price because he would be getting a higher wage."

Robert L. Brown, of the Santa Ana Book Store, declared that he wants to see good times and that the only way in which we can have prosperity is for a fair profit to be made on goods."

"If a factory producer puts a price on an article that price should remain on that article. I think this would be a fine thing if it would make it possible for both factory and the store to make a fair profit."

"I am opposed to anything that eliminates legitimate competition," J. C. Horton of the Horton Furniture company said. "I am opposed to fixed prices, either by the government or by trade associations."

"I do approve of the market cooperative associations, such as the citrus growers. These are generally of a benefit and have been worked out successfully."

Mr. Wood, of Wiesemann's, said, "I believe the fair trade act to be a good thing because it puts an established price on an article and this way one store cannot sell the article for less than some other store can afford to sell it. By placing a definite price on goods, the value of that goods is established."

WOMAN SORRY: RETURNS WATCH

By MALCOLM BOSTWICK

One of the most charming and delightful letters William C. Lorenz, jeweler at 106 East Fourth street, ever received, was in his hands today, together with an $80 woman's wrist watch, stolen last Thursday from the counter at his store.

The letter, written in a firm hand upon Christmas wrapping paper, was addressed "Dear Sir" and informed Lorenz that his valuable watch was enclosed in a package. The watch, according to police reports of last week, was taken as a couple, both about 35 years old, were visiting the store, inquiring about prices of various watches. Officer Charles W. Wofford, who investigated, was informed the couple came into the store to inquire about the purchase of a watch. While the clerk was busy answering questions of the man, the woman apparently attracted by the beautiful time piece, slipped it up her sleeve and carried it off. She read the story of the theft in The Register, last week.

The young woman gave her address as Norwalk, Calif. She mailed the letter from Wilmington, where, it is believed, her sweetheart companion debarked on a ship bound for foreign ports. Although authorities knew her name because she gave it to them, they will not prosecute. But here is what she wrote to Lorenz as she returned the watch:

"Dear Sir:

"When in your store last week with a boy friend, we were rather intoxicated. Our intentions were honest and while unable to explain why, I walked out with one of your watches. I want to make it clear that it was no plot.

"The boy friend did not know about it until long after leaving the store. After realizing what I had done, he and I agreed that I return your property, which I am glad to do. I am sending it

Yule Party Is Compliment To Club Husbands

Having completed their first year as a club organization, Armeses club members celebrated last night with a Christmas party complimenting their Scout husbands, in the C. R. Rousseau home, 1221 South Main street.

Mrs. Rousseau had banked her big living room with Christmas garlands and poinsettias, and decorated the family tree in readiness for the event. While the Scouts held their formal meeting in M. W. A. hall, the clubwomen elected officers following the precedent of Scout officers. Thus Mrs. Charles S. Mitchell will resign the presidency to Mrs. J. S. McWilliams. Others are Mrs. Glenn Lycan, vice-president; Mrs. Rousseau, secretary, and Mrs. Earl Lindig, treasurer.

Instead of a party next month, the women will attend Scout installation on January 15, in M. W. A. hall, and remain for cards and dancing to follow. Another business matter of interest, was the voting of a gift of $5 to the Salvation Army for its Christmas basket fund.

When the Scouts arrived for party features, it was to enjoy a salad course followed by home-made mince and apple pie with coffee. The small tables were spread with covers in holiday design and lighted with Christmas candles.

While the hostesses enjoyed the charming gifts received in a Christmas exchange, their husbands had the merriment of a joke gift exchange. An additional feature was the presentation to Mrs. Mitchell of a handsome set of rose crystal, a prize awarded by Mr. Jennings to the member making the highest number of bridge points during the year. Mrs. Mitchell had offered a consolation gift, and through a coincidence this went to Mrs. Jennings, who received a pretty compact.

Scout husbands and Armeses wives sharing the party gayety included with Mr. and Mrs. Rousseau of the home, Messrs. and Mesdames Ora Jennings, Elmer Smith, Earl Lindig, Glenn Lycan, Walter Wright, Ray Graham, J. S. McWilliams, Douglas Peddy, Charles Ryan, Edward Morse, Charles Mitchell, Santa Ana; Tom Wilson, Long Beach; Albert Mueller and Marvin Currott, Huntington Beach, with one guest, Mrs. Gould of Salt Lake City, houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. Graham.

W. C. T. U.

Santa Ana W. C. T. U. members added their protest to that of the Ministerial association Tuesday afternoon, going on record as opposed to the wartime theme suggested by the toy soldiers included in the city's holiday decorations.

The Union's meeting was held in Sprague Memorial church, with Mrs. Adeline Hersher, vice president in charge. Horace Evans, James Haarstad, Reuben Kreutz and Josh Brady, Junior College Men's quartet, sang "The First Noel" and other numbers. They were accompanied by Eliza May Hoxie.

Mrs. Edna Hewitt Smith of Orange County Tuberculosis association screened the film, "Behind the Shadows". Devotional words were led by Mrs. Ida Biee. Miss Louise Brokaw, program chairman, introduced Mrs. M. E. Geeting, who gave readings, "Christmas Day in the Morning" and "Keeping Up With Your Neighbors".

A committee comprising Miss Louise Brokaw, Mrs. Edie Means, Mrs. Bruce Gibson, Mrs. A. A. Jones and Mrs. Amy Evans was appointed to arrange for a penny party to be held in January. Mrs. Edie Nicholson was appointed to represent the W. C. T. U. on the coordinating council.

The next meeting will be held January 12.

The Mixing Bowl

By Ann Meredith

2 squares bitter chocolate, softened
1-2 cups cake flour sifted with
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-2 cup blanched filbert nut meats
—tested recipe.

Cream butter and sugar until a waxy. Add egg yolks, one at a time, and beat well, then add the chocolate, shaved and softened over hot water. Again whip smoothly. Sift flour with baking powder three times; alternate with milk in mixing the batter. Give batter a quick light beating. Complete the mixing by carefully folding in the stiffly beaten whites, and the blanched nuts, heated and floured.

Divide batter between two oiled layer tins and bake 25 minutes in a 350 degree oven. Cool and put together with this delicious and quickly made chocolate frosting.
2 squares bitter chocolate, shaved and softened in 2 tablespoons hot water
1 unbeaten egg
1-4 cup hot butter
1 teaspoon vanilla and 10 drops of almond extract
Sifted powdered sugar as required
18 marshmallows, quartered
—My recipe.

Put the soft chocolate in a mixing bowl with the melted butter, add a little sugar to hold the butter, then drop in the whole egg, beat well, gradually adding sugar until of right consistency to spread. Flavour and spread between layers, and over top and side. The quartered marshmallows are buried in the layer filling.

This filling never disappoints. It stays soft right to the last bite. The general idea may be used in making any butter icing.

EXPECT CAPACITY AUDIENCE WILL WITNESS SHOWING OF ANNUAL CHRISTMAS PAGEANT

RUDOLPH RITES ARE OBSERVED

ORANGE, Dec. 10.—With capacity audiences expected at both presentations of the pageant "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," to be given at the Walker Memorial hall on Sunday at 2:30 and 8 p.m., all details of the event are now complete, according to the director, Mrs. Judith Payne. The pageant was presented twice last year when many were turned away on both occasions. No charge is made. The afternoon presentation is for members of the church and the evening presentation for the public.

Dr. Robert Burns McAulay, of the First Presbyterian church, of Orange, officiated at the rites, while the Sunday school class of which Mrs. Rudolph was a member, attended the services in a body.

Mrs. Carl Pister, accompanied by Mrs. Florence Donegan at the organ, offered two vocal selections, "Beautiful Isle" and "Rock of Ages." Mrs. Donegan also played before and after the services.

Pallbearers were W. A. Ralph, Charles Bennett, Al Phillips, of Orange; Horace Hilyard and Fred Phinney, of Santa Ana, and Jerry Young, of Anaheim. Interment was in Fairhaven cemetery beside the body of her husband, Henry K. Rudolph, who passed away several years ago. Mrs. Rudolph is survived by one sister, Mrs. Flora Hitchcock, of Sandusky, Ohio.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By L. S. Klein

Rescued by A Wolf.

THE Turkish tribe was captive in a valley in northern Caucasus, many centuries ago, and no way could be found for escape. A blacksmith of the tribe, one day, wandered away and was accosted by a gray wolf.

That wolf became the saviour of the Turks, and to this day is almost worshiped by them. He is "Boscourt," which means "gray wolf."

He led the blacksmith to a narrow opening in the mountains, through which later the Turks were able to flee. The blacksmith, also, became the idol of his people, for he widened the pass to freedom.

For many years thereafter, the people of Ergene Kon, where the original Turks had been captive, celebrated this strange rescue with an annual festival. A stamp issued in 1926 and 1929 pictures both "Boscourt," the wolf and the blacksmith, with his hammer and anvil, marks by which some Turks claim the original discovery and use of iron ore. The stamp is shown here.

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

Remember the one about the farmer dividing three-fourths of a field among four sons? This starts out the same way but it winds up a lot differently. This man must have been that farmer's brother. Anyway, the owner of the farm which is diagrammed above had sold the part of his property which is shaded and when he died the executors of his will were faced with the problem of dividing the remaining property into parts of equal size and shape for the four sons. After doing a lot of fancy figuring they found a way. Can you? Let us warn you that each boy might receive his share in more than one piece; but the allotments must agree in each case in size and shape.

THE 21-gun salute now is used all over the world, but in the early days there was no set standard. Monarchs received more guns than republics, for they were considered more important. In the beginning, gun salutes usually consisted of seven guns, since seven always has been regarded as a magic number.

Authorities To Thrash Out Pros And Cons

"The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here."

By HOMER CANFIELD

Hollywood, Dec. 10.—

TUNE YOUR EARS TO AMERICA's Town Meeting of the Air. The subject up for discussion, "Social Security," is of vital interest to you. This should be the opportunity to have all those misundertood pros and cons righted.

Says George V. Denny Jr., director and moderator of the program:

"The timeliness of this subject is apparent. We believe that all Americans within the reach of a microphone will welcome this opportunity to be authoritatively informed, both pro and con, on a matter that will be affecting almost every family in the United States within three weeks."

No less than the executive director of the Social Security Board, Frank Bane, will speak on behalf of the act.

Morris A. Linton, president of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Co. and prominent Philadelphia banker and industrialist, will disagree. (KECA, 6:30) going to be put on your "must" list. It is "Dr. Kate." In weekly episodes it will tell of the everyday life and activities of a woman who heads a small town hospital.

A NEW PROGRAM IS BEING

Hal Burdick, whose "Night Editor" and "Do You Believe in Neighbors?" scripts may be familiar to you, is the author; his wife, Corneille Burdick, the star.

Other members of the cast to be heard through the series include Helen Kleeb as Sarah Tuttle, head nurse of a hospital in the west and friend of Dr. Kate's for many years; Charles MacAlister as Judge Halsey, old friend and legal adviser; Helen Muzelman in the ingenue role of Nurse Louise Carter; Elston Wyckoff as Dr. Kate's nephew, Dr. Fred Crowley, and Earl Lee as Hank, the man-of-all-work at the hospital. ### CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

Just before Christmas each year, the Salvation Army accepts a tremendous responsibility. It virtually contracts to guarantee baskets of food and toys, received through contributions of local organizations, institutions and individuals, for approximately 400 needy children and their families. Officials of the Salvation Army announced this week the start of this year's campaign for cash contributions, toys and other appropriate gifts. Meanwhile, the desk of Capt. Lewis McAllan has already become stacked with pleas from children who have profound faith that they will not be forgotten. The Register has the highest praise for all organizations in the city that are taking up similar work, and does not feel it amiss to single out the work of the Salvation Army to present a good reason why every man and woman should immediately become imbued with the Christmas spirit.

HEART HONESTY

If you have never been outside of the sheltering comfort of your home, that may be the reason you never have been tempted to commit a violation of the law—a violation of someone else's rights. And the fact you may not have been placed in a position where you were tempted is not to be held against you.

But far more praise is due that person who may "slip" and recover himself or herself through the medium of an honest heart. That is why we offer praise today to the young woman whose name is known to the authorities, but whose name doesn't really matter, who took a charming and valuable wrist watch from the counter of a local jeweler last Thursday afternoon while the clerk was busy elsewhere, and disappeared.

For that young woman sent the watch back to the jeweler yesterday and along with it, a charming and sincere letter of regret. The attractive watch, valued at $80 set with diamonds, tempted her and she took it. But her conscience, her heart honesty, mastered her temptation. The jeweler will not prosecute. He and we give credit where credit is due.

LOOKING AHEAD

Marching forward, steps ahead of many other California cities, city council took commendable actions at its meeting this week, is adoption of ordinances designed to lead off possible insanitation and old model building construction.

One ordinance, regulating automobile trailers or camp cars, and camp grounds, in Santa Ana, the council and City Attorney Lew Blodget believe, will protect the city against the menace of insanitation which may be created by the building and occupancy of many new automobile trailer homes.

The trailer ordinance was adopted at request of state, county and city health officials whose guarding of the public health causes them to be alert to possible developing health menaces. The council was informed that these health officials believe he growth of trailer construction throughout the state is already creating a health problem in some localities. Adoption of the ordinance, The Register believes, was a wise move, similar to the move of a man who locks his barn before his horse is stolen, or puts on gloves before picking up a hot poker.

The second adopted ordinance modernizes the Santa Ana building code here by accepting the Uniform Building Code, as Santa Ana's standard 1935 edition, in place of the 1930 edition—a five-year step forward.

BANKING AS A STABILIZING FORCE

In a very interesting discussion on this subject, in the magazine "The People's Money," Joseph E. Goodbar makes the following statement: "Credit inflation, either with or without currency inflation, is the important factor which feeds and nourishes the feverish business booms which disrupt stability and plunge our people into depression. In the resulting disorder, bankers themselves, by hundreds and thousands, are engulfed in the very disaster they have unwittingly but enthusiastically ushered into the national economic stage. The primary aim, therefore, of sound banking is and necessarily must be—the management of credit in the interest of preventing, so far as possible, the development of inflation. The least that can reasonably be expected of the banks is, that they themselves will abstain from any policies that encourage or promote the development of inflation."

It does not seem reasonable to suppose that the banks will refuse to loan credit when they make a profit on the loaning of credit.

The author goes on to say that these principles may seem simple in their application under existing laws which may really become serious indeed, though its existence is apparently recognized by very few economists and bankers. An amendment to Section 24, of the Federal Reserve Act, in 1935, has opened the door to the possible creation of bank reserves in a big way on the mere security of real estate mortgages.

Under this amendment, banks may lend up to 60 per cent of their time and savings accounts on real estate mortgages. Since, on March 4, 1936, the total of such time and savings accounts was nearly ten and a half billions of dollars, it is clear that 60 per cent amounts to in excess of six billions, which may go into loans on real estate. Under further provisions of the Banking Act of 1935, the nature of securities that may be accepted by the Board in extending credit to member banks has been freed of legal restrictions, so that now a bank may borrow from the Reserve Bank when the nature of its security is merely "to the satisfaction of the Board." The effect of these two provisions is to confer authority on the Board to permit the use of mortgage notes, if it sees fit, as security for the expansion of the reserves of the member banks.

It will be remembered that John Law, years ago, in France, established "La Banque Generale" which issued money in very large quantities and used real estate as security. Every one knows the results.

TELEVISION AND EMPLOYMENT

It is often contended that employment, after a depression, is accomplished by the discovery and production of some new product for man's use.

Mr. Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, believes that television's huge demand for new talent and ephemeral entertainment will go far toward solving America's unemployment problem.

The fleeting nature of television will help make jobs, Mr. Sarnoff contends, pointing out that "unlike a play on the stage or a motion picture which may run for a year, the television program, once it has been shown to a national audience, is on the scrap heap."

As a result of this, he says, "television broadcasting, even more than sound broadcasting, will be the great consumer of art. It will constantly demand more and better writers, musicians, actors and scenic designers. Television will call for a whole new generation of artists."

As invention and science enable us to have more of the things we enjoy, the demand for entertainment and amusement naturally increases much more rapidly than the demand for necessities, such as food and shelter.

The opinions of Mr. Sarnoff are certainly encouraging to those who are in the entertainment and amusement field.

A MESS OF OUR DEMOCRACY

Prof. Everett Martin, of the department of philosophy of Claremont College makes some interesting comments on our democracy, as quoted in the Times a few days ago.

Professor Martin, unlike the garden variety of collegiate intellectuals, sees no hope in "planning," economic or social. He is afraid of government and wants little of it, but what there is, he wants strong and efficient. Here again he goes back to the founding fathers.

"The writings of Hamilton," he says, "show that he held to this ideal despite his opposition to Jefferson. He was afraid of government by faction. Jefferson's maxim, of course, was that the best government is that which governs least.

"What is happening on the continent of Europe is the negation of it, a kind of madness that may spread, already is spreading, into our own country. The checks set up by the founding fathers, our Congress, for discussion, the Supreme Court to prevent government tyranny over minorities, still are necessary. We have made a mess of our democracy, no doubt, but its principles are still good."

JOBLESSNESS REMEDY

If we want to see a boom such as we have never seen before, we have only to set our industrial plants to work to make up the production deficiencies of the seven years of depression. This is on the word of the canny Dr. Harold G. Moulton, president of the Brookings Institution.

Dr. Moulton told the Executive club in Chicago the other day that to make up for the deficiency in durable goods alone, upwards of 8,000,000 additional workers would be kept busy for at least five years. Nearly 4,000,000 more would be required for a similar period to make up the deficiency in non-durable goods.

Adding those two facts, we could look ahead confidently to a period in which the unemployment problem would be reduced to minor proportions—if, indeed, it is not wiped out.

SUGGESTIONS BY ASSOCIATION

As we were waiting for the elevator in the First National bank, Attorney B. Z. McKinney came in and started to chat. He remarked that seeing the writer reminded him that he had to go to the bank. We inquired as to why that caused him to think of the bank. His answer was that he read so many editorials about money in The Register.

It is strange how association of ideas leads to bringing certain things to mind.

We knew we had lots of editorials on money but we did not know we had so many that they thought of money when they saw us. At least we were off the tax question. That's something.

It Seems to Me by HEYWOOD BROUN

As one who was pretty nearly regard myself as middle-aged at 42.

In a sense partisans of the American system of government have the laugh on England just now. In years gone by it was pretty hard to answer the argument that an unwritten constitution was much better than an inflexible document of enumerated powers. But it seems that there can be marked differences of opinion concerning the fundamental law even when it is not set down in black and white.

A Supreme Court for England Great Britain could possibly find an easy way out of its dilemma if it had an eight-man Supreme Court such as the High Bench which is functioning here currently. It would be simple then for that august body to hand for that august body to hand a four-to-four decision—the tie, as usual, being in favor of the runner.

Under such circumstances Baldwin and the Archbishop of Canterbury would have their moral victory and the King would have Mrs. Simpson.

Four of the learned jurists would go on record as forbidding the King to marry the lady from Baltimore, and the other quartet would rule permission for the marriage. If I understand split verdicts, that would carry the implication to Edward, "It will be all right this time, but don't do it again." Such a procedure would preserve tradition and a good motion picture plot at one and the same time.

But I have said that my confidence in the success of the King was built on local evidence. Mr. Mencken is a good prophet in reverse, and Mr. Hearst has come out for Wally. Of course, Mr. Hearst was wrong about Roosevelt, but he has recanted, and it is hard to think of his being wrong in succession. Indeed, my whole impression is that, having lost an American election, William Randolph Hearst is now out to win an English one.

And who is Henry Mencken to defend tradition in the same article in which he takes sides against a home girl in her modest ambition to be empress? Mr. Mencken ought to be run out of town unless he is prepared to admit that nothing is too good for a belle of Baltimore.

Moreover, he talks of mores without taking count of the fact that powerful forces have been at work against the Victorian philosophy of Great Britain. After all, the empire, like the rest of the world, has known motion pictures for more than a generation.

No matter what the average young Englishman may have learned at Eton or Harrow or less swagger schools, he has been trained in the cinema palaces to accept the fact that the boy always gets the girl. What chance has Baldwin in talking of any George, Albert or James to a British public which is much more familiar with Robert Taylor?
